IN Y. W. C. A. CIRCLES.

The quarterly meeting of the Y. W. C. A. which was held last night in the rooms of the association was exceedingly successful and well attended. Reports were given by the secretary, Mrs. Henry C. Brown, and the various committees. An increase of seventy-six new members during the last quarter was shown and upon the whole, the statistics embodied in the reports showed a fairly surprising growth and progress.

After the business had been transacted, the meeting took the character of a social, and refreshments were served.

Rev. Father Stephen Heartily Received

It was a large and enthusiastic crowd that greeted Rev. Father Stephen last evening as he entered the St. Louis College hall escorted by M. A. Gonzales and Major Camara. The large hall was filled with his former schoolmates and friends from the Portuguese colony, and in front of the platform he was welcomed by the Bishop of Honolulu, Consul Canavaro, the clergy of the Catholic Mission, and the faculty of St. Louis College.

The Catholic Mission band furnished entertaining music in the college grounds and the St. Louis College quartet under the leadership of Brother Francis, assisted materially in the evening's entertainment. The duet "Life's Dream is Over" by Father Valentin and Jean Sabate was well received as was Father Valentin's solo, "The Soldier of the Cross." Two duets were rendered by Mrs. N. Alapai and Miss J. Kellias and during the intermission refreshments were served, while the band played several selections.

The address by Louis Medeiros, the popular president of the Portuguese Literary Club, was a very true tribute to the Rev. Father Stephen, and was much applauded. It was as follows: "We are assembled here tonight for the purpose of greeting and congratulating our newly ordained priest, Rev. Father Stephen, and to express our appreciation and gladness with deep feelings of gratitude to all those dear fathers who were instrumental in securing his clerical training and make him what he now is.

"We shall endeavor not to exclude any of the Catholic clergy with our thanks here tonight, for we all know that to God and themselves alone do we owe this opportunity of incommensurable pleasure and happiness of tonight beholding one of us, the first Portuguese priest in these islands.

"Dear friends, if you will allow me, I will take you back to the time of his early schooldays. As I understand, he attended school at the St. Louis College, of which this beautiful hall is a part, and here it was that his good qualities were developed. Here he received his first religious education—here he began to thirst most insatiably for the knowledge of Jesus Christ—and to get in close touch—breast to breast, heart to heart, with the teachings of the Holy Roman Catholic Church—that kind, generous and most forgiving of all good mothers.

"As he continued and progressed in his studies, he found himself, little by little, being carried away, as it were, from his worldly environment into that holy sphere, yet quite foreign to him but in which he soon rejoiced to be.

"God with all His mercy and heavenly aid brought him out of that mire. He succeeded remarkably well, for we are all aware of the results. His good qualities, his merits as a student, his religious tendencies, and his expressed desire to become a champion of the Holy Catholic faith, made him a favorite of his benefactors, the good-holy Father Leonore, and the whole Catholic clergy.

"God grant them long lives, that they may live to see the fruit of their labor, and we thank them from the bottom of our hearts for the interest they have taken in us, for Father Stephen's ordination is ample proof of their good will towards us Portuguese. What joy there must have been in this young man's heart when, in May of 1895, his Lordship stated his intention to take him away, and place him in a seminary for his preparation. His great joy must have been immeasurable when he boarded the steamer for the coast and his destination. But here it is well to think of the feelings of those he left behind. His dear, indulgent father, his loving brothers and all those dear to him, looked on with tearful eyes, and waited till the good ship disappeared in the horizon.

"They did not begrudge his going. They realized, nevertheless, that that good-bye must of necessity be a prolonged one. They also must have thought of the inevitable change that would transpire through this long absence and his education, and that he would return a foreigner to them in all respects except one—that one, no name, no education, and no circumstance on earth can efface, that is, the fact that he is his father's son. Therefore great must have been their emotions during that sad hour.

"And the dutiful son? He also must have thought of his dear father and brothers and all those that concerned him. He more particularly thought of his dear dead mother, who, if alive, her joy would be unsurpassed at this hour. He also thought of his dear friends and schoolmates, and he was leaving, perhaps, for the last time, never to see them any more. These were all very sad indeed, but the love of God and to serve Him, spurred him on, gave him strength to battle with the little frailties of his nature, and bade him think of nothing else save our salvation, the glory that awaited him, and the good that he could do.

"Thus, in company with our dearly beloved Bishop he journeyed along, reaching Louve, Belgium, in due time, where he was enrolled as a student of theology. We all know how hard and tedious the task of deep study is, but our hero applied himself to his arduous task, for a period of seven years, with such great zeal and earnestness that today he finds himself crowned with laurels of success. We, the young Portuguese of Honolulu, are rejoicing tonight and shall continue to rejoice. One thought of him will fortify us. We are proud to speak of Father Stephen as being the first Portuguese young man among us who has ever been ordained a priest.

"Father Stephen, in behalf of the land boys and those that you recognize as your former schoolmates, I congratulate you upon your ordination. We realize that a priest's life, especially in these islands, is not all sunshine and roses, but with the grace of God we pray for the successful discharge of your holy duties till our Lord Jesus Christ sees fit to end your career and take you to a place of complete rest and consolation.

"We congratulate all the dear Fathers for their new addition to the clergy, and we hope they will not stop re-creating. We need more fathers to take up Christ's work, and I am sure that some more Father Stephens can be got if sought.

"We congratulate the relatives of Father Stephen, and suggest that, if they still possess another Peter, they deliver him unto the sacred trust of our dear Bishop.

"We also congratulate the Brothers of St. Louis College for the honors added to their long list of scholars, to which Father Stephen takes first place. And we finally congratulate ourselves, his friends and schoolmates, and we assure the Rev. Father that we shall remember him in our prayers."

Father Stephen replied briefly to Mr. Medeiros address. He was very much moved by the demonstration of his friends, and a fugitive tear could be seen running down his cheeks. A line was then formed and headed by Louis Medeiros, the entire audience filed by Father Stephen offering him their congratulations.

OPPOSITION TO CUBA IN SOLID PHALANX

Washington, March 21.—Speaker Henderson and the leaders in the House of Representatives awoke this morning to an unpleasant surprise. The sugar beet rebellion, which they supposed they had put down, was again raging. At midnight the rebel leaders had met and rallied, and dawn brought the news that Michigan was still solid for a fight to the last ditch. This turned the fate of the battle. Minnesota was quick to fall in line, and before noon it was known that fifty votes were assured for any plan of resistance which the steering committee might report. California still gives 6 votes, Wisconsin gives 7, Washington 2, Nebraska 2, Maine 2, New York 2, Utah 1, Iowa 3, Kansas 3, West Virginia 4, Maryland 2, Ohio 4, Illinois 3 and Michigan 12. A number of States gave promise of others, which were counted as possibilities.

Senators McMillan and Burrows met the Michigan delegation in the House this afternoon and talked over plans for the campaign. McMillan complimented the insurgents on the stand they had taken and promised support in the Senate.

Representatives Payne, Dalziel and Speaker Henderson were around today vainly trying to stem the hostile current. They begged the insurgents not to stir up factional differences in the party, but to fall in line and follow the leaders. Everything is being done to placate the opposition. It is the plan of the sugar forces to amend the Cuban relief bill when it is under consideration in the House, and the amendments and speeches will alike be directed to showing that the sugar trust is sick of the demand for Cuban reciprocity.

If the attempt is made by the chairman of the committee of the whole to vote out amendments as not germane, the best men will oppose them, the decision of the chairman. If they can command fifty votes they will be able successfully to oppose the plans of the House leaders. On many points the Democrats will vote with them. Richardson stands with the Ways and Means Committee for reduction, and he has tried to bring Democratic influence with him; but his leadership is only nominal, and the rank and file of the minority are taking the ground that they will not vote for legislation which is, on the face of things, in the interest of the sugar trust. There is still plenty of fighting in sight.

$200,000 TRAIN

Chicago, March 28.—At the Northwestern Railway station today several thousand persons were given an opportunity to examine a new train of seven Pullman cars and an engine which represented an expenditure of $200,000. The train is one of the eight which have been provided by the management of the Northwestern, Union Pacific and Southern Pacific, and beginning next Monday they will constitute the "Overland Limited," which will run between Chicago and San Francisco.

The entire equipment of the new service cost about $2,000,000, and represents the climax of car building, decorative and furnishing arts. All day General Passenger Agent W. B. Kniskern and his assistant, Charles A. Cairns, entertained at luncheon upon the diner of the train many well known Chicagoans.

The new "Overland Limited" trains are undoubtedly the finest extant, as they represent the latest attempt of the Pullman Company. The cars are all in black, and are provided with several appliances which are novel in transcontinental travel. One of these is the compartment car, each room of which is furnished in different colors. The greatest novelty is the telephone service which has been provided for trains while they are standing in the stations at Chicago, Omaha and other cities.
